THEY SAY I'M DEAF

By Saul N. Kessler

They say I'm deaf,
These folks who call me friend.
They do not comprehend.

They say I'm deaf,
And look on me as queer,
Because I cannot hear.

They say I'm deaf,
I, who hear all day
My throbbing heart at play,
The song the sunset sings,
The smiles that greet my eye,
Two lovers passing by,
A brook, a tree, a bird;
Who says I have not heard?
Aye, tho it must seem odd,
At night I oft hear God.
So many kinds, I get
Of happy songs, and yet
They say I'm deaf.

TORONTO TIDINGS

Mrs. James Stark and daughter, Helen, of Burketon, were interested visitors at our church, on October 14th, having come up to spend that week-end with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Timpon at Long Branch. Mrs. Stark was formerly Miss Lizzie Ormiston, the clever daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Ormiston, of Raglan.

Mr. John Goss, of St. John's, Newfoundland, has been in this city for awhile lately. He was a schoolmate of Messrs. Fred Parsons and Edward Crocker at the Halifax, N. S., School for the Deaf years ago.

Mrs. William Pepper, of Mitchell, arrived in this city, on October 16th, for a few weeks' visit to her daughter, Mrs. Albert Yoe, and other relatives here. She misses her dear old friend, Mrs. A. W. Mason.

Mr. George Bell, who has been lino-typing on the Brussels, Ont., Post for several weeks past, was down in our midst over the week-end of October 20th, George is always looking happy and spry.

Miss Gertie Dickson, the refined and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dickson, of Fraserburg, has secured a good position here and we welcome her. Though not, deaf she can converse in the sign-language fluently. When at the Belleville school long ago, her mother was then Miss Mabel Elliott, of Fenelon Falls. Gertie and her friend, Miss Mildred Burgess were at our church on October 21st, and in the evening had tea at "Mora Glen," where they met a bunch of newly made friends.

Miss Mary A. Harris, late of Picton, has become one of our own now, by securing a situation here and we hope she will remain for good and enjoy our many social functions.

Your old scribe thought of playing a joke on his good wife, so on October 20th, he invited over a dozen of her friends on the quiet and gave her a complete surprise, giving her as his excuse, the fact that it was her natal day compliment. The affair was a success from every angle and all who came certainly enjoyed the treat. Games and fun predominated throughout the evening and closed with an abundance of ice-cream and cake. Mrs. Roberts received many lovely presents, for which she feels very thankful, including gifts from Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Middleton, of Horning Mills, and Miss Helen A. Middleton, of Niagara Falls.

Mrs. A. C. Shepherd and Mr. and Mrs. Lethbridge motored down to Belleville, on October 21st, to see their respective sons whom they found in good spirits.

The pulpit and platform of our church was most tastefully decorated with nature's provisions on October 21st, as a reminder of the ever supplying hand of Providence. It was our annual harvest Thanksgiving and Messrs. Colin McLean and Fred Terrell, who were the speakers, dwelt upon God's boundless mercies to His children at all times, and made it clear how thankful we should be the All Provider. Mrs. F. E. Doyle rendered the Thanksgiving hymn and the turnout was very encouraging.

Messrs. W. W. Scott, Joseph Goldman, John Narrie and Charles McLaughlin went over to Buffalo, N. Y., on Saturday, October 20th, to attend the N. A. D. entertainment, and report a good time. Here they met their old Belleville school crone, Mr. A. L. Sedlowsky, who generously showed them over the beauty spots in Bisons town next day, and on their way home stopped over at Niagara Falls to see the illuminations. Besides these, others would have gone to attend the entertainment had duty not tied them down.

Miss Beulah Wilson underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils, on October 23d, and at time of writing is doing well at the home of her sister, Mrs. Silas Baskerville.

The Women's Association of our Church are staging a high-class entertainment with movies and other amusing attractions on November 24th, the proceeds of which go to bring Christmas cheer to the poor and needy. So come and boost the attendance!

Mrs. Alex. Buchan, Sr., left on October 26th to spend a few months with her daughter, Mrs. John E. Crough, in Walkerville and her presence here is much missed. We hope her lengthy sojourn along the border will be a pleasant one.

Owing to so many other engagements, the Bridgen Literary Society will not put up a bowling league this season, but groups of our alley enthusiasts can play at the Central Y. M. C. A. any Saturday afternoon or evening.

Mr. J. R. Byrne continued his version of the Lord's Prayer at our Epworth League, on October 24th, and dwelt on "Forgive our debts, as we forgive our debtors," in which he drove home very forcibly the great importance of this meaning and the large crowd present greatly relished it.

We congratulate our young sprinter, Mr. John Dyson, in capturing the handsome silver cup and several medals at the recent meet of the East York Marathon. It is all the more interesting, because Mr. Dyson is handicapped by short sightedness. Yet he is a very fast runner, anyway.

Messrs. John Buchan, Gerald O'Brien, W. W. Scott and Ellsworth Bowman and Miss Evelyn Elliott, were all up for their examinations on postal laws and regulations, towards the end of October, and are now awaiting the results from the Civil Service examiners at Ottawa. Here's hoping they passed.

Mr. George Brethour has a new garage built for his car. The work of construction was almost done by himself.

The Bridgen Literary Society held a very pleasant evening on October 25th, and after Chairman Roberts had given out the usual announcements, the following programme was carried through: Current Events by Messrs. J. R. Byrne, F. E. Harris, W. R. Watt and H. W. Roberts, after which much discussion followed thereon. Then an educational game, new to us all and engineered by Mr. Charles Elliott, wound up a most enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Frank E. Harris, who had a tonsil operation at the end of September, is, at time of writing, visiting with her parents in Kitchener to recuperate.

Your correspondent and Mrs. Roberts were very pleasantly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Walker in their beautiful apartments at Kelvin Manor on October 23d, and here the visitors learned a lot of past history of their good host and hostess. Here goes the account in tabloid form. Sidney Rutter Walker graduated from the Belleville school away back in June, 1880, and in the following September he left with his family, including his deaf brother, the late John Charles Walker, for old London. John came back later before he passed away in this city on March 28, 1923, but Sidney remained in the old land some years longer, or in all forty-five years. On June 6, 1900, he was married to Miss Emily Witchell, a well-known deaf lady, who graduated from the Bristol, England, School for the Deaf, in 1879, and both came back to this country in June, 1926. Both are well known and highly respected members of our church and society.

WATERLOO WEE BITS

Mrs. John A. Moynihan was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Forsythe in Elmira for a few days lately. Their only child, Miss Marie Forsythe, is now out working, having passed through school.

The talky movies as they now appear will be of no use to the deaf from a pleasure standpoint. When there are no socials or club meetings, the deaf usually drop into the movies to kill their idle moments, especially where the talking methods are not employed.

The other day, after Mrs. F. S. Williams and son, Hardie, of Kitchener, had been spending a nice time with Mrs. Moynihan, they went for a stroll and were surprised to see so many new homes going up on the property formerly occupied by the Ontario Seed Co. adjacent to the Moynihans.

That lady who was mentioned in last week's issue as regaining then losing her hearing while in Hodgins' beauty parlor, was a Waterloo lady unknown to the deaf, who lives four blocks from the Moynihans and is very wealthy, but does not mingle with us at all.

Before coming to the service in Kitchener, on October 21st, Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Nahrgang, of Speedville, stopped at Freeport to see Mrs. William Hagen and found her as cheerful as she could be.

Mr. Howard J. Lloyd, of Brantford, brought his whole family up to the meeting in Kitchener, on October 21st. His service was pretty well attended, about thirty being on hand, and those from outside points were Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Nahrgang, of Speedville; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Nahrgang and Mr. and Mrs. William Cannard, of Haysville; Mr. and Mrs. John Forsythe, of Elmira; Misses Mary McQueen, of Guelph; Margaret Kauffman, of Palmerston; and Luella Strong, of Bloomington; James P. Orr, of Milverton; the Martins and Moynihans, of Waterloo. It was decided to hold service here every Sunday, commencing on October 28th, and we trust the practice will be successfully kept up.

LONG BRANCH LOCALS

Mr. H. W. Roberts, the Canadian JOURNAL representative, was out here from Toronto, on October 25th, visiting friends, and here is what he heard concerning the deaf in this burg.

Mrs. George J. Timpon recently won a valuable prize, as champion euchre player, at a house warming party.

Mr. Brown, the aged and blind father of Mrs. George Elliott is still very poorly, but his daughter is doing her best for him.

Mrs. Otto Kuehn, of Toronto, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLaren on October 25th. She would like to rent one of the residences, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. George J. Timpon.

We understand that Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Pilon have their home up for sale. What their future movements in case of disposition we are unable to state as yet.

George, Jr., and Walter Herbert the two elder sons of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Timpon, have just been vaccinated as a precaution against any unseen malady. "Safety First" is the slogan in the Timpon household.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gagnon has been raised and a concrete foundation placed under—a sign of prosperity and home beautiful.

While out on his milk route the other morning, Mr. George J. Timpon was run into from the rear by a careless motorist, and the wagon was badly damaged and the milk spilt all about, but fortunately George escaped with only a bruised leg. The impact was so sudden that Mr. Timpon knew nothing of it until he regained his composure. It later turned out that the autoist had imbibed too freely with John Barleycorn and as a consequence had to foot the bill, after being arrested by the traffic squad and given a stern warning.

GENERAL GLEANINGS

While working in the barn, Mr. Ernest A. Lawson, of Phelpsston, accidentally fell and hurt himself pretty badly, but we are glad to say is now out again.

The mother of Miss Dianah Weiler, of Mildmay, is out again after her recent two weeks' serious illness. The Weilers recently had company from Brantford, Hamilton and Guelph. Dianah's sister, Olive, has gone to the States as a trained nurse.

Mr. Thomas A. Middleton, of Horning Mills, was out to Southampton, on October 21st, to get Mr. John Taylor to assist him with his thrashing, which turned out to be a very good yield.

Mr. Charles McLaren, of Long Branch, recently ushered in his eighty-second birthday and is still hale and hearty. He ranks among the oldest deaf people in Canada, and we hope he may enjoy many years yet to come ere the "curtain" falls.

As Mr. Howard J. Lloyd, of Brantford, puts it, "the proof of the pudding is in its eating," so is the proof of the best paper in the number of subscribers and no wonder the JOURNAL is much enjoyed, for the following handed your scribe their subscriptions this week to swell the increasing Canadian circulation: Robert McMaster, of Warton, Charles McLaren, of Long Branch; Noah LaBelle, of Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask.; Adam McHardy and Ewart Hall, of Toronto.

The youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Smalldon, of St. Thomas, is one of the brightest children of deaf parents that we have had the pleasure to meet. Though only seven summers born, she is high in her school standing, having made 100 per cent in spelling and ninety-two per cent and up in other branches. She is also an expert in our sign-language.

Mr. George Bell, who is now working temporarily in Brussels, was out visiting relatives in Arthur recently.

Mrs. William Roger, of Munro, was a visitor at the home of Mrs. William Pepper in Mitchell, just prior to the latter leaving for a visit in Toronto.

The Misses Sylvia Caswell and Helen A. Middleton, of Niagara Falls, Ont., were among the big crowd of deaf who trekked to Buffalo for the big N. A. D. entertainment at the Statler Hotel, on October 20th, and spent that week-end in Bisons town.

The aged mother of Mr. Robert Sutton, of Brantford, died in that city recently in the ninety-fourth year of her age.

On October 21st, Mr. Charles A. Elliott, of Toronto, went up to Aurora, and joining Mr. Herbert McKenzie and Mr. and Mrs. Eli Corbieri, motored out to Cookstown, where he held a very successful meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Averall. Among those from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dickson, of Fraserburg, who came over seventy miles; Mr. and Mrs. David Lennox, of Phelpsston; William Brandon and H. St. Amant, of Elmhurst; Mr. and Mrs. S. Jones, of Churchill; Mrs. Eva Van Valin, of Barrie, and others.

The two sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Smalldon, of St. Thomas, were down from Detroit to see their parents over the week-end of October 13th.

Early Courage vs. Late Regret

BY HEIKKA L. WILLIAMS

In spite of the best efforts of the doctors, it is still difficult for the average person to realize that it is cheaper and easier to stay well than it is to get well. A lot of people think that it is brave to believe that the pain that bothers them will wear off without their doing anything about it. Some have a fear complex and won't go to the doctor because he might find something the matter with them. There is neither logic nor common sense in either of these attitudes. For example, one of the most insidious diseases, one that creeps upon its victims with almost no pain and but little other warning, is tuberculosis. Loss of weight and appetite, a stubborn cough, a persistent feeling of fatigue, are the commonplace indications of it; symptoms so familiar that we often treat them with contempt. Neglect, however, may lead to months, even years of serious illness, and perhaps the loss of life itself. Thousands of patients have recovered from tuberculosis, but there would have been many legions more if they had faced their problem in time.

It one has a broken limb, one does not go about hoping that it will "wear off". Why, then, should we take an equally absurd chance with our lungs?

The National Tuberculosis Association, and its affiliated organizations, is conducting an active campaign to stress the importance of the early diagnosis of tuberculosis. The twenty-first annual Christmas seal sale will be held to supply funds for this and other phases of the tuberculosis campaign.

ONE OF MRS. BUCKLY'S BOARDERS

When old Doctor Buckley died, he left a wife who was ailing and whom he had married late in life, and a daughter, Madge, who was twenty and just out of high school. He also left a big, rambling house set in fair-sized grounds and several books full of accounts which would hardly pay for the trouble they would take to try to collect. His last sickness and death used up nearly all the ready pay money there had been, and as Mrs. Buckley, who was wont to defer to her husband in everything, was not much of an asset for a young girl to lean on, poor Madge found herself facing a situation which was almost appalling.

But Madge was of good courage and whenever she found herself just on the point of giving up, she would look at her delicate little mother and gather fresh courage. Surely she, a great girl of twenty, ought to be able to wrest a living for two out of a world which hitherto had only turned its friendly side to her. For days she pondered the aforesaid living and finally decided to keep boarders.

The following week a neat appearing and well-worded little notice appeared in the weekly Tattler, announcing that in one week, Mrs. Imogene Buckley would open her home to a few paying guests. Rates might be had on making personal application at the Buckley home evenings.

Needless to say, a house so attractively and conveniently situated as the old Buckley house, was to the business section of the town, was soon booked to its fullest capacity. And such a cleaning and arranging as went on the few days before the house was opened! Everything was beaten, dusted and scrubbed, until not an atom of dust could be found in the whole place. Madge was busy supervising the cleaning, smudges of dirt appeared on her pretty nose and great callouses burned on her hands, which hitherto had never done anything more arduous than play golf or wield a tennis racket. Needless to say, Mrs. Buckley spent the greater part of her time sitting in her room weakly bemoaning the past glory of her fallen estate.

Yet loyalty to her brave little daughter prevented one word passing her lips to anyone save Madge. A month later, the household had quite fallen into a daily routine which might have run smoothly if it had not been for the little daily differences and jealousies which were sure to arise between some of the boarders. There was Miss Pitkin, for instance, who taught school and who had, in fact, taught too long and had become quite crabbed in her disposition. She watched the other boarders and Madge to see whether Madge or her mother showed any favoritism. If, for instance, Mrs. Jenkins, who sat on Pitkin's right, seemed to have been helped to a little better portion of roast or chicken than she had, or if Miss Clawson, who was head of stock at Wooley's department store, had a mite more whipped cream on her piece of short cake, Madge was accused of partiality. And Miss Pitkin would sulk. At times Madge found the women quite difficult to manage. Always some one complaining of lack of towels or that certain ones had held the bathrooms longer than the stipulated twenty minutes which was allotted to each boarder for the morning bath.

Madge grew quite distracted at times when she was commanded to be on three floors at once, but she always sighed with satisfaction when the weekly balance was struck and she saw she was somewhat ahead financially.

The men she found were more reasonable. They almost never complained. They were seldom in the house longer than to eat their meals and sleep. Madge was several weeks learning about her man boarders, and the caught only bits of what was passing between the women, who spent their evening talking in the one big parlor. Thus matters went for weeks until one day a plainly dressed, little, old woman sought board at the "Buckly," as Madge had named her boarding house. The little old woman came beautifully recommended by a former boarder as to character, but nothing was said as to her circumstances. She took the best room in the house, which happened to be vacant, and settled herself to be comfortable. She was no trouble at all, she did not mix with the other boarders, save to pass friendly greetings, and even cared for her room except for the weekly cleaning. Madge found her quite refreshing and soon learned to love her dearly.

And as for Mrs. Buckley and Mrs. Herron, as the little old lady called herself, they struck up a friendship which was very agreeable to both Madge and her mother, who found little enjoyment in the other boarder society. It also gave Madge more time to attend to her duties, as she felt more free to leave her mother with their new friend. Before the coming of Mrs. Herron, Mrs. Buckley who was delicate and could only attend to the mending and repairing, kept much to her room, and oftentimes, in consequence, found herself very lonely.

One day, Mrs. Herron called Madge to her room and told her that she had just received a letter from her nephew, Tom West, who had been in South America for his health and who was now entirely recovered. He was coming home and had taken a fine situation in Elmhurst. She desired that he might board at the Buckley with her and wished Madge to arrange to take him. At first Madge thought it would be impossible, but finally made the necessary arrangements, which would permit Mrs. Herron to have her wish.

Madge met Tom West at dinner the night he came. He was a fine young fellow with dark eyes and hair, and a face so honest that one instinctively felt drawn to him. He was most courteous to all the boarders and most attentive to his aunt, but as far as Madge was concerned she might just as well have been a stick for all the notice he paid her. The rest of the boarders soon absorbed him, the women hung on his every word, especially when he related some incident pertaining to his recent travels. Even Miss Pitkin ceased to watch the plates of the others, fastened in adoration on the face of Tom West.

This went on for several weeks, when one day Mrs. Herron was taken ill. It happened to be a time when there was much sickness and it was impossible to get a nurse at so short a notice. There was nothing for poor Madge to do but just shoulder the added burden and assist Tom West in caring for his aunt. This, of course, threw them much together, and although Tom seemed grateful for all that Madge was doing for his aunt, he still maintained a cool aloofness until one morning, as Madge entered Mrs. Herron's room bearing a tray upon which was placed a dainty breakfast for the invalid, who was now well on the way to recovery, the tray slipped out of her tired hands and she fell in a faint across the bed.

A few moments later, when Madge opened her eyes, she found herself held in Tom West's arms and his face was bending close to hers.

"My darling," he was saying over and over. "You have worn yourself out with so many duties and cares. I can never, never forgive myself."

Surprise and joy brought the color swiftly back to Madge's white face. Tom West cared for her! So well had she hidden the secret almost from herself that she loved him that even her mother had not been aware of the struggle Madge was undergoing to kill a love which she was sure was most untimely. Tom cared for her! And his aunt did not disapprove. Madge could see that from the old woman's smile.

Three months later Madge and Tom were quietly married and on their way South for an extended honeymoon, Madge looked very happy and pretty in her dark traveling suit and little close-fitting hat. As the train which was bearing them away drew out of the station at Elmhurst, Madge turned to her husband and said:

"Now, Tom, you said as soon as we were on board the train you had a secret to tell me."

"Well, my dear," Tom said, giving his bride an adoring look, "I think you will agree with me that it is a pleasant one. First of all, I am not just a poor clerk. and next of all, while we are away Aunt Abbey Herron and your mother are going to clear out all the boarders and renovate and refurnish the whole house. I have promised to keep you away until everything is spic and span. We all agreed that you have done quite enough to deserve a fine rest."

"But Tom," Madge said in a puzzled little voice, "why did you treat me so coolly if, as you have said again and again, you fell in love with me at first sight?"

"That I will acknowledge was unfair to you," said Tom earnestly. "But honey, I am a rich man's son and my Aunt Abbey has oodles of money and—I wanted to marry and be married to a girl I was sure loved me and not my money. And most of all I wanted to go out and earn my own living long enough to be sure that I had brains enough to take care of what I had. I thought I did not like girls—and I didn't until I met you and you won me by your sweetness."

And so they all lived happily ever after.—D. J. Walsh.

THE NEED OF TALKING.

Shy persons are nearly always embarrassed on meeting strangers by what they feel is the necessity of finding something to say. Usually they are unable to think of anything that is not flat and commonplace; and rather than utter a remark that they feel would stamp them in the stranger's mind as stupid, they remain silent and wait for some one else to introduce a topic that will be of common interest. Sometimes relief of the desired sort is forthcoming, and sometimes it is not. When it fails, the commonplace utterance seems finally less painful than a prolongation of the silence.

What the shy person seldom learns, however frequent the experience, is that commonplace speech may be used as brilliant epigram or scintillating wit—in establishing a friendly relation with another human being. Talking as a means of impressing your individuality is not altogether dependent on the value of the thing said. The mere act of speaking, the play of the lips, the light that flashes from the eyes, the sound of the voice, reveal the speaker as silence cannot reveal him. It would be absurd, of course, to minimize the importance of good talk, of having something genuine and interesting to say, but most persons, and especially most persons who are shy, do not emphasize sufficiently in their minds the value of opening a conversation in even the most trite and obvious way, with a commonplace or a triviality, if nothing better suggests itself. It is through such openings that sympathetic ideas and emotions often make their way from one mind or heart into another.

As everyone knows, there are some persons, who, when they are with others, feel it incumbent upon them to be always be talking. It is all right to begin to talk out of a desire to be companionable; it is all wrong to talk on and on for no other reason than a desire to be companionable. Once companionability is established, speech ceases to be an obligation; it comes spontaneously, and it ceases at will. In the society of a silent person, a man can always take refuge in his own thoughts; in the society of an incessant chatterer, there is no refuge.—Youth's Companion.

Inn Without Beds

The small inns of China are totally without beds. In one end of a large room there is a stone raised about two feet above the floor with a length of 10 or 12 feet. This stone is kept slightly heated when it is desirable and it answers the purposes of a bed and dining table. At night the guests spread their own mats upon it and sleep there one alongside of another. At meal time they sit on this platform and eat their rice.

The following paragraph, taken from the Ohio column of the JOURNAL, is somewhat misleading:—

"Gradually printers who do not use the linotype but depend upon hand setting, are losing their positions. This comes rather hard on deaf printers of the old style, who never had the chance to use the linotype machines."

It may be that the installation of type-setting machines has caused employers to dispense with the services of some of the compositors, but it does not follow that the linotype is causing good printers any distress; for a good compositor can become a fairly good operator on the linotype in less than six weeks.

A good "hand printer" is an essential to success as a linotype operator. It is true anyone can hammer the keys and work the starting lever, but that does not make him a good linotype operator.

The difference between machine typesetting and type set by hand, is that in setting type by hand you pick the letters from boxes and place them in a composing stick; whereas, in linotype operating you touch buttons that designate the different letters, and the machine does the moulding of those letters in one solid line.

The operator sets the line of matrices. He tells the machine to send down certain letters that make the words, and the punctuation of the clauses, sentences, and paragraphs that these words compose. If he tells anything wrong, by touching the wrong button, the machine will mould the mistake—and a single error in a line, requires the entire line to be set again.

The machine does not think—the operator does the thinking.

The same quality of knowledge that is possessed by a good hand compositor, is required to make a good linotype operator.

The hand worker learns the "case" in a day or two, and his manual skill is acquired in a few weeks.

But after that, he must devote four years to the acquirement of the multiplicity of details necessary to produce a good printer.

It is absolutely necessary to know how to spell correctly, how to punctuate properly, to discriminate between common and proper nouns and to capitalize the latter, to understand abbreviations and when they are preferable to the word spelled out in its entirety, besides reading type readily, and distinguishing the almost imperceptible difference in type faces, etc., etc.

All this is in addition to the general education with which the apprentice is equipped to enable him to qualify as a beginner.

The very important qualification of accuracy is only obtained by long and incessant practice.

The deaf apprentice very often spells words so as to "fool the eye." For instance, such words as "familiar,"

"commercial," "similar," etc. Only constant effort and extended experience can eradicate the tendency to make errors in spelling such words.

THE Le Conteux Leader of Buffalo, says there are too many linotypers in that city, but pupils who learned the printing trade at school have no trouble in securing work in outside towns. It also adds: "At the beginning of the term the school sought information from other schools and the Typographical Union. Replies seem to indicate there were too many linotype operators and few all-around job workers for present needs in the shops."

THE newspapers announce the death of Erastus Buck Treat, at the age of ninety years. He was a member of the Society of the New York (Famwood) Institution, being elected May 18, 1869—over fifty-nine years ago. Mr. Treat, up to two or three years ago, never failed to attend the Annual Meeting. He was a publisher and importer of books, and a consistent and devoted citizen. Funeral services were held on November 6th, at the Washington Heights Methodist Episcopal Church.

On account of Election Day being observed as a holiday, much news that arrived late must be omitted from this week's issue. If correspondents would note the difference between publication day and press day, letters containing news of importance would seldom be postponed. Please note that the first and fourth pages go to press at noon every Monday, and that pages two and three are on the press at the same hour on Tuesday. The JOURNAL is sent to the New York (Branch) Post Office promptly each Wednesday morning.

Vancouver, Wash.

Several of the deaf of Vancouver visited the new Jantzen Beach. It is the newest and the most up-to-date beach in southwest Washington—situated just beyond the bridge on the Oregon side. Some of the officers of the State school have stopped there several times when they motored down down to Portland. It is such a beautiful beach. It is now closed for this autumn and winter. It will be opened next spring, around Decoration Day.

During October, Prof. W. S. Hunter hired several of the boys to work on his grapes. The boys are now finishing the work there. The boys were very good workers.

A gentleman hired seventeen boys of the W. S. D., to work on Mr. French's prune farm, one Saturday. Mr. French was not there, as he was away on business. The boys were disappointed not to see Mr. French, who is a State senator.

The O. W. L. S. of southwest Washington and Portland, held a meeting at Miss Northrop's home, one day about the middle of August. They formed a new Alumni chapter of the O. W. L. S. Miss Northrop was elected president and Mrs. Divine was elected secretary and treasurer. Miss Zell, from Ohio, Mrs. Treuke, from Omaha, and Mrs. Bertram, from Seattle, were present at the meeting and helped organize the chapter.

Alan Crammatte, of Aberdeen, is a new student at the W. S. D. He became deaf two and one half years ago, shortly after his fifteenth birthday. The cause was spinal meningitis, an epidemic having visited his home town, Aberdeen, at that time. Not knowing of the school for the deaf in Vancouver, he decided to go right on with his high school work. He had two years to go. After having graduated from the Aberdeen High School, he learned of the Vancouver School and Gallaudet. Being anxious for a college education, he decided to attend this school and prepare for the Gallaudet examinations.

Messrs. Werner and Craven paid a visit to the State school to see the boys and officers. We were very glad to see them again. We had a nice visit that day.

On Saturday, October 13th, Mrs. Linde and Mrs. Craven, of Portland, Mrs. Hunter, Misses Northrop and Newman and Mrs. Horn, attended a reception in the new Administration Building at the State school. There was a meeting of the O. W. L. S. Miss Dodd was hostess. After the meeting, they had good games and refreshments. Mrs. Horn will have the next meeting at her home in Vancouver, on Friday, November 9th, in the evening.

The Gallaudet Alumni held a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Linde in Portland, on the evening of October 20th. There were ten members present. The evening was spent playing cards. Later, refreshments were served.

Mr. Alexander McDonald's son, Ellis, a student of the University of Washington in Seattle, motored down to Portland with his friend to see the football game, between the University of Oregon and the University of Washington.

ST. LOUIS

Mr. Robert Woods, the hearing son-in-law of Mrs. Hattie Deem and husband of her daughter, Mary, died suddenly of acute indigestion on October 7th. He had been ill for some time, but the end was entirely unexpected. He was well known to the local deaf, having often attended our social affairs. Our sympathy goes out to those who mourn his loss. Interment took place at Oak Grove Cemetery.

The Grim Reaper took another toll among our midst, when Mrs. Emma Dieckman (nee Schoenbeck) passed away suddenly after an illness of some duration, on the 25th. She was a life-long resident and well-known among the deaf of the older generation. She leaves three children and three grand-children to grieve for her passing. Rev. Steideman assisted at the burial services. Interment was in the Pickers Cemetery.

Our Geo. Arnot received a wire that his brother-in-law, Mr. Howard Bashore, had suddenly died, and left for Laketon, Ind., to be present at the funeral services.

Mrs. DesRoches, of Chicago, formerly before her marriage a resident of this city, was in town to attend the funeral of her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Page, of Chicago, were seen greeting old friends for a short stay here, ere going farther west to Kansas City.

Mrs. Woods, daughter of Mrs. Hattie Deem, has left for a rest in her old Mississippi home and with friends in Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, of Houston, are the latest additions to the Texas colony in this city. The latter recently gave a surprise party to Geo. Hunter, which was a complete surprise.

The Gallaudet Club ushered in the fall festivities with a Halloween party at the club rooms on the twenty-seventh. A large crowd attended. The committee in charge of the affair had a full program of games and kept the fun fast and furious till a late hour. Several new games were introduced, along with the old reliables. Prizes appropriate to the day were bestowed on the lucky ones. The janitor had to chase the late revellers out, so he could close up.

The St. Louis Chapter of the Home Fund will meet in the future at the Gallaudet School building instead of in the Public Library, at the same time as usual—third Friday evenings. Officers recently appointed were all B's: Mrs. Berwin, President; Mrs. R. Burmeister, Vice-President; Mrs. Blevins, Secretary; Mr. O'Bayne, Treasurer; and Mrs. Beck, Sergeant-at-Arms. Let us hope they will live up to their busy namesakes, in swelling the fund for the Home.

The Christmas Fund, which distributes useful things at Yuletide to all of the locals who are in adversity, had a card party at the Gallaudet Club on the twenty-first. The affair was engineered by the Joe Islands and their committee. Euchre and lotto were played by the crowd, and the profits turned into the fund.

Prof. and Mrs. Hughes of the Fulton school were in town recently, for a week-end stay, to see their friends. The professor had a close call up in Wisconsin last summer, as an auto sneaked up on him unaware and put a gash in his skull that had to be stitched up. At present it has healed nicely.

The boys at the Fulton, Missouri, School for the Deaf, took the scalps of the Webster High School, a local snub, at the former's grounds. The final score was 21 to 0.

The Euchre Club, the oldest social card club in town, that plays "500" by the way, opened up for the season with a meeting at the home of the Hardens. The prizes were won by and Miss Roper and Chas. Jones and J. Burgher.

Mr. and S. Zimmerman and Mrs. Gartner and her little boy, Lester, of Altoona, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Richards for a few days. They were pleased to have them come and spend the few days. They were taken for a drive in a new car to Brockway and Ridgeway, and enjoyed the long ride.

Mr. and Mrs. Richards were away on a vacation to Williamsport. They attended the church where Rev. F. C. Smielau preaches at Cleveland, Ohio. While at Williamsport, they got a smart fox terrier.

OHIO

News items for this column can be sent to B. M. Edgar, 56 Latta Avenue, Columbus, Ohio.

The football game between the Kentucky and the Ohio teams was played at the Ohio School grounds in a soft, gray rain, that fell throughout the afternoon. The sports reporter of the Columbus Dispatch says:—

Outplaying their hosts for the first period, the Kentucky lads accepted the kick-off on their own 20 yard line, and, by virtue of a successful forward pass and splendid line smashing, worked the leather far into Ohio territory, where a fumble finally ended the parade on the 28-yard line. Ohio recovered but fumbled and then recovered. The ensuing ten minutes saw both teams kicking frequently, with Kentucky having the edge at line play.

It was not until the half-way mark had been reached during the third period that Kentucky forced Ohio to fumble and recover behind her own goal line for two points.

Kentucky, aided by the fine running of the Blonde Byrd and Hale, threatened consistently, but tough-down hopes were always thwarted by an alert Ohio forward wall which threw itself into every play. As a matter of fact, the margin of victory was in the line, and Ohio's was the superior.

The line-up:—

Ohio S. S. D.	Pos.	Ky. S. S. D.
Brown	L.E.	Howard
Shroyer	L.T.	Whitt
McCallie	L.G.	Caines
Pfahler	C.	Kimberlin
Marcal	R.G.	Kalbleisch
Tavorio	R.T.	Miller, C.
Velte	R.E.	Miller, C.
Liggett	O.	King
Kennely	L.H.	Hamilton
Carlish	R.H.	Hale
Ship	F.	Byrd

Touchdowns—Kennely; first downs, Ohio, 9; Kentucky, 9; substitutions, Ohio none; Kentucky, Schatz for Hale, Lowry for Schatz; fumbles, Ohio, 3; Kentucky, 3; officials, referees, DeVore (Ohio State), umpire, Rosenthal (Western Reserve); head linesman, Knauss (Gallaudet).

The Kentucky boys are a fine lot of youths and made many friends here, and all will look forward to meeting them again for the basketball tournament in February. They, with their coach, Mr. Martin, took their defeat in real sportsmanship manner. November 2d, the Ohio team goes to Flint, Mich., to have a game with the Michigan school team.

The Columbus Ladies' Aid Society had their annual fall social, October 27th, and had a large crowd present. The Kentucky boys attended this and appeared well pleased and patronized the various booths.

To give a list of out-of-town visitors is impossible, but they came from far and near. The game in the afternoon attracted many former pupils. Rev. F. C. Smielau, who came to conduct a service Sunday, mingled with the crowd, greeting old friends and making new ones.

The supper, which was a fine one, was so well patronized that all the seats were gone early in the evening.

The committee did not anticipate such a demand for food. All the booths did a good business and more than $200 poured into the cashier's cage.

The room was not over decorated, but looked attractive in black and orange and Halloween witches and cats.

One surprise we had at the social was meeting Dr. J. S. Long, of the Iowa school. At first we could hardly believe our eyes. Dr. Long made a stop-over, on his way to the conference of superintendents and principals in Tennessee, to visit the Ohio school, and his daughter, Mrs. Thompson, whose husband is now connected with the Ohio State University. Dr. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and their little daughter visited the school Monday morning, and Dr. Long's Ohio friends were glad to meet them all.

Dr. and Mrs. Jones and Principal Abernathy left early Monday for Tennessee, as they were to motor down there.

We were given permission to announce the engagement of Miss Henrietta Hahn, of Cincinnati, to Mr. Fred Mahan, of Texas. Both attended the Ladies' Aid Society's social with Miss Hahn's mother, brother and sister. Miss Hahn graduated from the Ohio school last June and Mrs. Mahan, who is of Mexican parentage, attended the Texas school, and has made quite a reputation as a pugilist. No date has set for the wedding.

We have received word from the head of the Maryland school that the young Scout Siple, who accompanied Commander Byrd, is not a deaf boy at all, as many thought, because the Maryland Bulletin printed a fine article about him, praising him as a scout, but not as a deaf one. At the time we wrote we had not seen the original article, but was misled by another in the school paper.

The Toledo Ladies' Aid Society sent a check for $50 to the Wednesday Evening Club for the moving picture booth at the Home. A few more such donations will be welcome, as it needs about $500 to pay for the booth. Checks can be sent to Mr. A. Ohlemacher at the school. Most of the societies in Columbus have been generous to the booth fund.

Mr. and Mrs. William Robb, (Della Hetzel) are now domiciled on Main Street in Findlay. Mr. Robb's friends tendered them shower at the home Mr. and Mrs. Miller. Many useful gifts were given them.

Miss Helen Pence, a valued teacher at the Missouri school and a graduate of the Ohio school, is recovering from a recent operation in a Fulton, Mo., hospital. Miss Pence's cheerful disposition has no doubt helped her to get along so well.

Gradually printers who do not use the linotype but depend upon hand setting, are losing their positions. This comes rather hard on deaf printers of the old style, who never had the chance to use the linotype machines.

Concerning the big basketball tournament for February, Dr. Jones has written the following:—

It is not too early to call attention to the Tournament to be held at this school, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 21st, 22d and 23d.

The schools participating are Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Ohio.

Our school is looking forward to a lot of excitement at that time and preparations will be made to furnish as many beds and as much food as possible at a very small cost to visitors.

The players of course and their managers and coaches, also the superintendents and their wives will be the guests of the school. Indiana has indicated her enthusiasm by ordering one hundred season tickets and indicating the need of another one hundred and fifty.

Akron promises a large delegation. The tournament will be held in the K. of C. Gymnasium, two blocks from the school. It is bound to be a very fine meeting for the deaf should they desire to take advantage of this meeting to hold other meetings, auditoriums will be furnished for them.

Season ticket will cost $1.50. This will furnish admission to all of the sessions, perhaps seven, and there will be two or three games in each session.

We should very much like for the receipts from this tournament to be sufficient to pay the expenses of all the visiting teams. We shall do our best and if the attendance from various parts of Ohio is what we expect, the prospect will be very good.

DETROIT

alone and lonesome. However, his mother keeps him amused by telling news.

IN DIXIELAND

Friends of Mrs. Hugh G. Miller, of Raleigh, N. C., arranged a surprise party in honor of her birthday on Wednesday evening, October 17th. Mrs. Miller was the happy recipient of a great many nice and useful presents. With the help of Mr. Miller, delicious refreshments had been gotten together, unbeknown to Mrs. Miller, which was brought in and served during the evening and a very happy evening was spent by every one who was present.

The Atlanta Frats held a big Halloween party on Saturday, October 27th, at the South Side Masonic Temple. A large crowd attended and much amusement was created by the various disguises. As this scribe did not attend, we have not been given full particulars as yet, and therefore can't say much, other than it was the regular sort of a "Hallowe'en" party, with games, prizes appropriate of the occasion, etc.

The Mabel Haynes Bible Class of Raleigh, N. C., held a very pretty Halloween party on Friday evening, October 26th, at the First Baptist Church of that city. The rooms were decorated in Halloween colors. Games appropriate of the Halloween season were played, after which refreshments were served.

Mrs. J. M. Robertson and Mrs. Louise Haynes were the committee in charge of the affair and put it through splendidly.

The Oyster Supper, which was to be given here on November 10th, to celebrate the first anniversary of the Atlanta Deaf B. Y. P. U. class has been postponed for a week or so later, in order to let Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Michaels get located here. They will be moving to this city round that date. Mr. Michaels will have his headquarters in Atlanta for the next year.

The last issue of the Palmetto Leaf carries a front page account of the big Frats' annual Anniversary Banquet, held at Columbia, S. C., on last September 1st, written by Mr. Herbert R. Smoak, a leading member of the Columbia Division. From reading the account, we judge that the affair was quite a brilliant event.

The boys employed at the Chevrolet plant here are still idle. It is said that the plant will resume work again about November 15th. All employees of this plant are hoping it will reopen soon, as enforced loss of time at this time near the holiday season is bad on all of them.

George Morrison, who formerly filled the position of boy's supervisor and instructor of shoe-repairing at the North Carolina School for the Deaf, has established a shoe-repairing shop of his own near Greensboro, N. C. His shop is equipped with the latest machinery of the well-known Landis make, and his shop is well located.

Thanks are due Mr. Hugh G. Miller, of Raleigh, for furnishing us with the North Carolina news items contained in this article. Will some of the deaf of the other Southern states please be as public spirited and help us gather the future news of Dixie?

NEW YORK

News items for this column should be sent direct to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, Station M, New York.

A few words of information in a letter or postal card is sufficient. We will do the rest.

Saturday evening, October 27th, the cop on the corner at the Sound View Ave. Station of the Pelham Park branch of the subway had dreams of promotion, graft sufficient to maintain a Rolls-Royce, or being called on the carpet by his captain for letting a bunch of souses get by without finding out where they got it.

Investigation proved him wrong on all counts: A bunch of the deaf, bound for the home of Mr. and Mrs. De Marchi, where a surprise birthday party was to be pulled off in honor of Mr. Charles Bothner. The darkness and well known stagger of the deaf being the cause of the cop getting up a sweat.

Everybody knows that quiet little chap, Bothner. Always in the background, quiet unassuming; aroused in an instant to come forth with act and speech in anything that will advance the interests of the deaf. One of the foundation stones of progress for many years. A devoted husband, with an adoring wife. His friends are legion.

This was an honest to goodness surprise: Charlie wandering in from an afternoon nap, bath and bed-room shave, expecting a quiet evening with spotted pasteboards with Mr. and Mrs. De Marchi—a usual Saturday evening pastime. Instead he was escorted to the basement to view the new boiler and, as the lights were turned on, found himself the center of a back-slapping, handshaking gang.

The basement of the DeMarchi home is specially adapted to parties, immaculately clean, and having an unobstructed space of about 30 by 60 feet, it is ideal for gathering. Games suitable to Hallowe'en and appropriate decorations were the order of events. Apple bobbing, the dish of fortune, wherein the hair of ladies gentlemen were floating and ended in a shower bath for the crowd. A vegetable treasure hunt, stories, etc.

Then came the call for all to go upstairs to the dining-room of the DeMarchi apartment. This was beautifully decorated with strings of colored electric lights, streams of crepe paper, and jack-o-lanterns. Everywhere the loving and painstaking care of Mr. Bothner was evident. A bountiful spread, with fortune cakes, in which various small objects, such as collar buttons, safety pins, hearts, etc., were baked. Mr. Chas. Fetscher was the lucky one to receive the only cake with a penny—denoting wealth to come.

Mr. Bothner was then the recipient of a huge laundry bag of tokens of esteem, which he opened one by one. Sad to relate, he carried home not one present that he had received.

A conspiracy between Mr. Fetscher and Miss Bertha DeMarchi, the eleven-year-old daughter of the family, caused the exact duplication of the package in which they were wrapped, and Mr. Bothner journeyed home carrying the laundry bag, several boxes containing odds and ends of junk, folded newspapers, etc. The party broke up at 2 A.M., with hopes that Charlie has a lot more birthdays and that his friends may be with him to show him how much they think of him. Space does not allow giving the names of those present.

Under the management of Mrs. Ludwig Fischer, the dinner was successfully carried insofar as Mr. and Mrs. Sol Buttenheim were surprised when some twenty-five friends gathered at Luigino's on West Forty-sixth Street to help celebrate their tenth wedding anniversary on Saturday, October 27th.

The food was excellent and cooked in the Italian style, and needless to say that spaghetti was the piece de resistance. As demi tasse was being served, Mrs. Fischer arose and in a neat little speech, presented the guests of honor with a check of twenty-five dollars, as a slight token of their great esteem. Mrs. Buttenheim responded, and warmly thanked those friends present and absent for the pleasant memento of the affair.

Then followed several speakers, who generally lauded the good qualities and recalled many incidents at school in their childhood days.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. L. Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. M. Kaminsky, Mr. and Mrs. S. Lowenherz, Mr. and Mrs. H. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Abrams, Mr. and Mrs. S. Teich, Mr. and Mrs. S. Gross, Mrs. H. Kurg, Mrs. I. Lovitch, Mrs. S. Greenberg, Mrs. R. Cohen, Mrs. J. Schultz, Mrs. H. Schulman, Mrs. C. Golden, Miss A. Hamburger, Miss B. Abramowitz, Mr. S. Frankenheim.

Those not present were Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Marks, Mr. and Mrs. J. Peters, Mrs. S. Eber, Mrs. L. H. Metzger, Mrs. M. Mayers and Mr. C. Golden.

Will anyone knowing the present address of Mr. John Aloysius Schmidt, former member of Brooklyn Division No. 23, please send it to Benj. Friedwald, 84 Lawrence Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Responding to a card of thanks and acknowledgment, sent to contributors towards the birthday gift to Mr. Samuel Frankenheim, about forty ladies and gentlemen assembled at his apartments on Friday evening, November 2d, to view the gift—or rather, three of them.

Standing out prominently is a mantel clock of spelter, about a foot and a half in height, flanked on either side by two ornamental vases of the same metal. The clock has a Cleopatra-like figure reclining in a hammock that is stretched beneath the dial. All three—the clock and the vases—are upon bases of onyx. The other presents are two ash receivers, one of gun-metal, to which a bull-dog is attached, the other a bronze elephant beautifies the side of the ash receiver.

Mr. W. G. Jones made a quite witty address, to which Mr. Frankenheim responded. They were both liberally applauded.

Spumoni ice-cream was served, with fancy little cakes, and the evening was passed in sprightly conversation.

Lest, you forget, after having attended the Bazaar at St. Ann's once, or if you like, on the three days—namely Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 8th to 10th, do not forget that on Saturday night, November 10th, the Manhattan Division, No. 87, N. F. S. D., holds its Advertising Costume Ball at Hunt's Point Palace, 163d Street and Southern Boulevard. Valuable prizes will be awarded to those having the best costumes. There will be dancing, and the music will be furnished by the celebrated Frankie Grossman's orchestra.

Last Sunday afternoon Mrs. E. V. Moeslein and Miss Kate Ehrlich went to the Swedish Hospital to see their old chum, Mrs. H. Thies, who is doing nicely, after an operation. She will stay there about two weeks. Her two boys come to see their mother every day. They said to her that they wished her home now. The boys are so big for their ages. Miss Kate Ehrlich visited three patients. Her married brother is at the Swedish hospital, and Mrs. Braun at her home. They all are getting much better.

A surprise announcement was made at a social gathering that Mrs. Iverson, of River Edge, N. J., held in honor of her daughter, Martha, on Saturday evening.

Guests numbering about fifteen all were seated at the tables, when Mrs. Iverson arose and made the surprising announcement that her daughter has become engaged to Mr. Harry Rowe, of Vailsburg, N. J. Hearty congratulations followed for the happy couple.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Benedict and family will motor to Orlando, Fla., on November 7th. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Witschiel will take a train for Orlando on the 12th or 13th, and will spend the winter there.

Central California

The Beams have returned to San Francisco, Cal. Too much and too often laying-off the reason for leaving Fresno.

The Bingham-Wenks planing mill burned down. So Dan Sherman has to look for another job. No rebuilding.

Berry Hancock has deserted Fresno County for the south and east. He stopped first at Lindsay to work in the orange harvest. His goal is Texas and his former job with a brother-in-law in a lumber yard. The wife, a native of California, will find adventure and sensation in the cold, snow and wind of mountain, plain and deserts, and new scenery.

The American Magazine for November has in its short feature department a write-up of Boulder, the peg-leg deaf-mute of Atchison, Kansas. His distinction is that he laid in a day as much brick in a street paving as six wheelers could bring. Homer Albright is working in the Fresno Home Packing plant, while waiting for the Lisenby foundry to reopen.

Oren Calkins found a cousin, from Southern Kansas, running a garage northeast of Fresno.

To those who yearn to live in Sunny California and enjoy oranges, grapes, figs and all kinds of fruits and vegetables: I—yea, me—Berry Hancock and Homer Albright, went to work picking figs. We were all on our knees or were with bent back, gleaning figs off the ground. In eight to ten hours we managed to make as much as $2.60 once, mostly $2! I went to grape picking and speeded myself up from eighty cents in nine hours to $1.90! Homer and Berry got city jobs at forty and fifty cents per hour, while I went to other jobs in the figs and vines. I have not as yet got over $2.25. If you think you can exist on these earnings, even Mexicans used to fifty and seventy-five cents in Mexico, can't and will not work at these jobs.

Ellis has finally, after a year, secured a steady job as dish washer in Swift's cafeteria, where Whipple (Olsen) has had a steady job for some years.

Labor is too abundant and cheap in southern and central California. It Congress passes at the next session the Box bill, excluding Mexicans, conditions will improve. Even if you want to farm the grape, fig and deciduous fruit, growers are not coining money unless they have a bumper crop and prices are high. Bumper crops are not rare, but high prices for growers are. The grower, who has live stock in variety and and quantity to use up his cull, surplus and waste, manages to keep ahead of expenses.

My old Ford puts me in the class of the farmer in Illinois, who raises good corn on rich land to feed to hogs to sell, to buy more land to grow more corn to feed to more hogs, and so on. My Ford hauls me to far jobs to make money to get gas, oil and repairs, for the Ford to haul me to other jobs to— and keep up the cycle.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Park, of Santa Barbara, entertained their daughter and family from Massachusetts last summer.

Cadwallader Washburn seems to be in Paris. He sold two etchings to the French government. His work is winning recognition as mastery of dry-point etching, where omission of detail and stress of leading lines bring out a clear picture.

If you know of a steady job, where I can make fifty cents per hour or more, kindly air-mail or radio the information pronto. My debts are on the increase.

THEO. C. MUELLER.

SEATTLE

The new Civic Auditorium will undoubtedly be a great asset to the city. Though only completed a couple of months or so, several conventions have already been held there. The finest attraction so far staged at the auditorium was the first annual horse show, just closed yesterday, after lasting for a week. It was a wonderful display of spirited and well-trained horses and skillful drivers. Seattle society occupied the boxes arranged in all the glory of full evening attire. We hope we shall never be compelled to miss this show as it comes each succeeding year.

One of the sisters of Mrs. J. M. Lowell, of Tacoma, recently purchased a new home in the Ravenna district. Mrs. Lowell and her husband and daughter spent a week-end with his sister recently, and we hope they will often drive over to our burg.

We supposed that James Scanlon was quietly residing with his mother at Tacoma, but a post card received from him recently, locates him in San Francisco, where he has obtained work in a furniture factory. We wish him success and happiness in his new location. He has had some training in commercial art, and perhaps can sometimes turn it to practical use.

Miss Sophia Mullin is now working at the Crescent factory, having transferred about two weeks ago from the Bemis bag factory. She enjoys her work in her new place very much, as there is more variety and she is paid by the day instead of by the piece. The Crescent factory is regarded in Seattle as a very desirable place in which to work, on account of the kindness and consideration shown employees. Sophia obtained the job through the friendly offices of Mrs. Holcombe, who left the factory and told her the psychological moment at which to apply.

Miss Mullin's sister, Mrs. Boyle, had an operation performed on her nose about two weeks ago, and is still under treatment by specialists. It was the trouble in her nose which caused all her ill-health of the past two years. The doctors at first had difficulty in locating the trouble, and now that they have succeeded, Mrs. Boyle's friends are glad to notice a steady improvement in her.

Mrs. Laura Foster found a job as a cook in the interesting family of a lawyer, when work at the hospital where she was employed became slack for a while. She intended the position to be temporary, but enjoys it so much that she now expects to remain in it.

Mrs. John Dortero is now comfortably settled in a private room at the Pirlands Sanatorium, where her friends can see her on Thursday and Sunday afternoons. Mr. Dortero and his daughter and son are living in a flat now.

The masquerade, held at Woog's Hall in Ballard by the Frats last night, was a pleasant gathering, though it was something of disappointment that so few masked, not more than a dozen or so appearing in costume.

The committee was headed by Mr. Spieler, and with him were Messrs. Sanders, Kirschbaum, Kelly, and Bradbury. The judges awarded first prize for ladies to Miss Bertha Stowe, who appeared in a corset dress with pantalettes of the time of the Civil War. She had made the whole dress herself of pink crepe paper, with tiny ruffles in many rows on the skirt and pantalettes, each ruffle edged with gold, and the whole dress decorated with flowers. A large bonnet added to the effect, which was charming and well deserved the prize. The second prize for ladies went to a squaw, whose identity we did not discover. The first prize for men was awarded to Dr. Hanson, who was attired as a colored dandy in red, white and blue striped trousers and long-tailed coat. He sported a high hat and cane.

Mr. Wright, as a fisherman, won second prize. There was also a prize awarded to the best costume among the children. Refreshments of sandwiches, coffee, and apples were served, and dancing, cards and other games filled out the evening. After prizes were awarded and masks were off, Mr. Wirth, of Portland, appeared dressed as a woman with a flaxen wig, having long curls made of ravelled rope. His taxi was stalled at a gas station for thirty minutes, which is the reason he was late. He was a very laughable figure and would have won second prize had he been on time. Among out-of-town attendants at the masquerade, we noted from Everett, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Frederickson, and Mrs. May Woj. From Tacoma came Mr. and Mrs. John Gerson, and Mr. Hiram Hopping. Portland was represented by Mr. Wirth, and Blaine sent two young brothers named Carlson. There were a number of other out-of-town visitors. Thirteen dollars was cleared above expenses.

Christian Christenson is keeping his beautiful Willys Knight car spick and span. He had the gray top removed and replaced by a black one, which harmonizes better with the color of the car.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury are now riding around in a four-door Dodge sedan, 1925 model. It is a pleasant change to them from their ancient Ford. The Bradburys continue to be showered by wedding gifts from their numerous friends and relatives, who all take a great interest in them. Annie's skill as a cook is already causing slim and slender Roy to expand, and his wedding suit is now too small for him.

The Gallaudet Guild started the first of its monthly parties this fall, by a bazaar on the 20th, held at the Hanson house. Mrs. Victoria Smith, president of the Guild, directed operations, in spite of now residing in Tacoma. Mrs. Smith is a hustler, and got together a very nice booth full of articles. The corner where it was, was decorated with laurel leaves on a trellis. As not much time was spent in preparation, not much was expected in the way of proceeds, but the unexpectedly large sum of nearly $30 was taken in, of which over $21 was profit. Among those who generously made donations and patronized the booth were the Holcombes, Miss Nation, Miss Gorman, Miss Mullin, Mrs. Boyle, Mr. Sanders, Mr. Christenson, Mr. Christensen, Mrs. Partridge, Mrs. Biggs, Miss Alice Wilberg, Mrs. Smith, and many others.

There was an attendance of twenty-six, who sat down to a late supper about half-past ten. At this supper the last course to be passed around was a large plateful of fine chocolates donated by Robert Bronson. Two tables of whist and some checker boards were well surrounded during the evening.

Alice Hanson who is now located on East 62d Street in Chicago, half a block from the University, is getting acquainted with the big city. She has discovered an alumna group of her sorority sisters, and also keeps in touch with other Washington State graduate students. She has seen Al Smith pass along in the streets, and says he looks just like his pictures, brown derby and all. Alice has joined a Prairie Club, which is the nearest approach to the benighted dwellers in Chicago have to a mountaineer's club.

Wilksburg, Pa

From the darkening overhead appearance and at a distance, it would seem that No. 36, N. F. S. D. was still navigating in troubled waters, but the staunch old bark weathers the upheavals in spite of the bickerings of the crew. A stern, unyielding skipper, no doubt, saves it from the rocks.

It seems a minority of said Division has registered a desire to separate into an independent division of their own, but the majority cannot see it that way, and to them they cling closer than a brother. Of course, the majority rules, but it seems strange to an onlooker that "brotherhood" does not assert itself and say to the disconcerted, "Brothers, go in peace." A body divided against itself cannot stand. The N. F. S. D., in general, stands for true brotherhood in strict fairness to all concerned, and that fine spirit should not be violated in any quarter.

Rev. Collins Sawhill was expected here October 19th, on his way to the Washington conference, and give a talk at the W. S. C. Hall, but on eve of departure from Cleveland he was intercepted by a severe cold, so he had to give up his trip to Washington and a lot of people have and at Washington were consequently much disappointed, for Collins is a fine entertainer when he is feeling right.

On October 23d, the Teegardens had the pleasure of a visit from Rev. Mr. Koehler and his son. They had been at the school to pay their respects to Superintendent Manning, but as he had not then returned from his southern trip, Mr. Teitelbaum conducted them to our shack where an hour or so was spent in interesting conversation. Mr. Koehler had attended the ministers conference at Washington and came here to visit his son, now living on South Side, Pittsburgh.

Superintendent Manning was away a couple of weeks, visiting his old home places in Georgia. Before he returned he visited several of the schools in the Southland and attended the Conference of Superintendents and Principals at Knoxville. No doubt, he stored up some ideas he can use in improving conditions at his own school.

The card party—"500" and euchre—attracted quite a crowd at the W. S. C. Hall, October 26th. There were ten or eleven tables for "500" and there seemed to be quite a rivalry among the players for the prizes offered. The following individuals were rewarded with gifts, valued all the way from things worth while down to trifles: Mrs. Ruth Friend, First; Mrs. J. Mackin, second; Mrs. J. Olah, third; F. A. Leitner, fourth; Mrs. Henry Bards, fifth; W. Eckhardt, sixth; Miss Dorothy Myers, seventh; Thomas Sarver, eighth; Bernard Teitelbaum, ninth; Mrs. Charles McArthur, tenth; and Miss Rose Vernalis, eleventh.

Mrs. Walter Zelch was at the card party, but did not play. She reported her recent visitors from Ohio were Mrs. George Sine (nee Nolan) and Miss Ida McFarland, of Toledo. Mrs. Zelch enjoys those visits of her Ohio friends greatly.

The papers announce the astounding news that Mrs. Lillie Starr Leah, a former student at Edgewood had recovered her hearing after a visit to the Evangelist, Rev. Sprout, at Glory barn recently. Believe it or not, time will tell, so just wait and see.

The Frat mask ball at Akron, October 27th, was the magnet that attracted quite a few of our people. George Lawther took Mr. and Mrs. Sawhill Mrs. Mildred Brown Smith and Mrs. George Clementson in his car; Mr. Ernest Brookbank, of Altoona, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. McArthur in his; and Harry Diehl took Mrs. Tusing and Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips. Fred Connor, Mr. Rogalsky and Miss Dorothy Havens went by train—quite a bunch to swell the Akron festivities.

October 21st, Daniel Irwin and Dr. Ide Kinney visited the Gettysburg battlefields. Mr. Irwin drove his car and made record time there and back, including the tour of the battlefields. This was Mr. Kinney's first visit to the famous fields.

The Wilksburg Silent Club held "open house" Hallowe'en night. There was a fair attendance, though not as many masks as expected. The prizes for best presentation went to: First, Gipsy girl, Miss Irene Schiffino; second, Miss Eber, Spanish lady; third, Mrs. Ethel Beatty, Old-fashioned girl. There were no masculine contenders. Mrs. Leitner was the Gipsy fortune teller and made some very accurate hits though her card manipulations.

Refreshments were served—apple pie, pumpkin pie, sandwiches and coffee, were the chief appetite appeasers.

The Poole farm out at Hunkers is still a drawing card. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bosworth and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Blackhall and children, and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Leitner, were the latest visitors to that attractive spot for genuine country enjoyment.

Mrs. Curtin Wilhelm, Miss Josephine Hartzel and Hugh Hartzel, all of Ligonier, were recent visitors at the Wilksburg Silent Club.

Vincent Dunn is hustling for the De l'Epee memorial fund, and from his home associates and neighbors has over $50 to show for his hustle. He is now making a drive for the dimes and nickels, supposed to be lurking in the pockets of the deaf in this vicinity. He ought to aim higher, however, and wing the dollars that are flying around.

The Capital City

The following article appeared in all the newspapers of October 23d, in this city:

DEAF-MUTES CAN LEARN TO TALK, ROTARIANS HEAR

"Men who have been deaf since birth, or virtually so, can talk almost as well as their fortunate brothers. This was demonstrated by three individuals who appeared before the Rotary Club at a luncheon yesterday in the Willard Hotel, at which Dr. Percival Hall, president of the Columbia Institution for the Deaf, spoke.

Dr. Hall said there were 17,000 students in schools and colleges for the deaf of this country. He explained that the curricula of those institutions are practically the same as in ordinary schools. Students graduated from such institutions, he added, invariably are able to support themselves. They find positions in a wide range of vocations.

The United States has done more for its deaf than any other Nation in the world. Dr. Hall introduced to the club Milton Corman, ten-year-old student at Gallaudet; John Wurdemann, also a student there, and H. D. Drake, a professor at the Institution.

Grover Blackstone, freight agent for the Pennsylvania railroad, and E. L. Huffman, manager for Burroughs Adding Machine, recently admitted to Rotary membership were introduced at the luncheon yesterday. The luncheon was attended by about fifty delegates to the Episcopal general convention.

Doctor Hall spoke on the same subject to the members and delegates of the conference, Sunday morning at eleven, at St. Mark's Church.

The Rev. J. W. Michaels, of Mountaintop, Ark., missionary to the deaf for twenty-five years, was in the city, October 25th, preaching on "Disease of Sin," at the Baptist Church in the evening. He also was at the Gallaudet College preaching at nine in the morning of that day.

For three days, October 19th, 20th and 21st, the Washington deaf had the most wonderful experience in witnessing the business meetings of the Conference of Church Workers Among the Deaf. As it was their first experience at such important meetings, you may imagine how thrilling and inspiring the meetings were.

Rev. A. D. Bryant's sermon of October 21st, was on "The Aimless Worker." Nearly all of the clergymen and delegates of the Conference attended. Mr. Rose rendered "Abide with Me."

Mr. Robert Fletcher, lay-reader and student for the ministry, was at the Conference on Saturday, the 20th. He left for Philadelphia to supply for Rev. Smaltz at All Souls' Church, on Sunday, October 21st.

Following is an advertisement which appeared in the Washington Star, the past week.

Wanted—Private lessons in deaf and dumb sign-language. Address Box 488-B, Star office.

The deaf here celebrated Hallowe'en, October 31st, in different fashions.

We had the pleasure of meeting three pleasant looking lay-readers, Mr. John Bremer, of St. Elizabeth's Mission, St. Matthew's Church, Wheeling West Va.; Mr. Carl G. Ayling, Trinity Episcopal Church, Syracuse, N. Y., and Mr. Harry Stevens, of All Soul's Philadelphia.

The Chicago deaf, especially the All Angels' parishioners, will be delighted to see the pictures the Rev. Mr. Flick brought with him, which he snapped with his kodak in this city and Baltimore, Md.

Among the clergymen, Rev. Flick and Rev. Pulver were the heaviest. It seems the climates where they reside agree with them.

Little Bobbie Vernier enjoyed himself meeting the delegates and visitors to the Conference, shaking hands with them and saying he was "Bob."

The happy couple that attended the conference reception given by the Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Tracy on Saturday evening, October 20th, were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hannan. They looked fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Lowry returned home to this city from England. October 23d, where they went to visit their married daughter last spring. They are the happy grandparents of boy twins, that gladdened the home of their daughter in England last summer.

Before a large home crowd, the Juniata College gridiron warriors at Huntington, Pa., on the afternoon of October 27th, triumphed over Gallaudet boys, 31 to 0. The contest was staged in a downpour of rain and sleet.

A Washington, D. C., party, consisting of eight rosters, Walter Hauser, Mr. and Mrs. C. Quinley, Frank Smith, Mrs. Alley, Miss Hoyle, Messrs. Hurowitz and Morrell, of Gallaudet College, returned home Sunday evening, October 21st, from Staunton, West Va., where they attended a football game between Staunton and North Carolina boys. The Staunton boys carried the pennant, 25 to 0. A reception was held on Saturday evening. More than fifty-eight visitors from Washington, North Carolina and other towns attended.

Mrs. Nora Watts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, who has been ill with nervous breakdown at the hospital, is now resting at the home of her parents.

The pretty little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Smoak is very ill with scarlet fever.

On the night of October 16th, the Rev. A. D. Bryant, again was surprised with a life-size photo of himself, a gift from his beloved congregation and friends. Prof. H. Drake made the presentation, after which refreshments were served. The portrait is framed and now hangs in the deaf mission department at the Calvary Baptist Church.

Mrs. P. R. Vernier was one of the hostesses at a card party and ball given at the Mayflower Hotel, for the benefit of the Democratic Campaign Fund, last week. Over two thousand attendees. She was one of twenty-five lady delegates from Washington, D. C., to greet the Governor and Mrs. Smith, and attended a luncheon for Mrs. A. E. Smith at the Alcazar, given by the Democratic Ladies' Club of Maryland.

The election officers of the Alumni was held at the residence of Rev. and Mrs. Bryant, Wednesday evening, October 24th. The results were Mrs. Krug, President; Miss Atkinson, Vice-President; Mr. Maczowski, Secretary-Treasurer. The next business meeting will be held at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Hall.

The "Lit" meeting was held October 17th, at the Masonic Temple. The Rev. Mr. Light, of Massachusetts, was introduced. He told many incidents of his trip, and he then boosted Boston, his home, for the coming convention of N. F. S. D. in 1931. Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Merrill, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Mrs. William Brown, of Wolliston, Mass., were present. Wallace Edgington opened the program by telling a story on "Trader Horn." Mr. Quinley on "Topics," and a conversation on "Thimble," was given by Mrs. Alley and Miss N. Nanney.

Some time ago, Mr. J. Edelen went to the dentist's to have a couple of teeth extracted. He said it was very hard to smile when he saw the shiny tools sparkling in the sun. When it was all over with, he could not find the sore spot.

Robert Werdig, our genial friend, very kindly invited the delegates and visitors in his blue auto to see the big government buildings and Potomac River during the conference week.

The "500" card club, under the presidency of Mrs. M. Marshall, gave a Hallowe'en party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Edgington in Kensington, Md., Saturday evening, October 27th.

The Rev. A. S. Bryant's sermon of October 28th, was on "Among the Friend." Miss Nanney rendered a hymn.

Miss Edith Houghton, a product of the Northampton, Mass., oral school attended the reception given by Rev. and Mrs. Tracy, Saturday evening, October 20th, and the service of St. Mark's Church, Sunday afternoon, October 21st.

It may interest the Michigan readers of the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, that Bishop Herman Page, of Michigan, was seen one day at the National Episcopal Convention, discussing the question of divorce resolution.

Mrs. H. C. Merrill remained in this city for a couple of weeks, visiting her old friends. The writer and her daughter had a pleasant visit from her October 25th.

Charming Mrs. William Brown, of Massachusetts, has the distinction of having walked up the stairs of the Washington Monument. She said it was a thrilling.

Rev. Jacob M. Koehler, Philadelphia, retired Missionary to the Deaf, was the oldest attendant at the conference.

The longest and hardest argument by the clergymen and delegates at the Conference was on the Article VI of the Tentative Draft of a Charter of Incorporation.

It was with much disappointment to all that Rev. C. S. Sawhill, Rev. F. C. Smielau, Rev. A. O. Steidmann and Rev. C. E. Webb, were unable to come to Washington, D. C., to attend the sessions of the Conference.
